

Hideo JOHO'S Biography

Dr. Hideo Joho obtained MSc and PhD degrees in Information Science from the Department of Information Studies at the University of Sheffield. He is currently a post-doctoral research assistant in the Department of Computing Science at the University of Glasgow. His research area is Interactive Information Retrieval, which looks at the search environment from a user's perspective. His recent work includes the development and evaluation of collaborative search interfaces and strategies. Dr. Joho was the co-recipient of the Best Paper Award at the IliX 2008 Symposium for work on collaborative search.